

"FREEDOM ISN'T FREE"

ONE OF SIX PAINTINGS COMMISSIONED BY THE CHEROKEE NATION IN 2013 FOR THE CHEROKEE NATION'S VETERANS CENTER.

American Indians have proudly fought for their own nations, as well as serving in every war of the United States and branch of the military; including the medical corps, military police, engineering corps and the cavalry. The Indians offered their services, lives and money in these wars, and in WWI, more served in proportion to their number and means than any other race or class of the population, despite the fact the United States did not universally give Indians citizenship until 1924.
