206 - "WINTER OF TEARS"

The Winter of 1838-39 was the saddest time in Cherokee history, when the United States,, (represented by the Bald Eagle), took the Cherokee people from their homes, herded like cattle, and moved to Indian Territory through the bitter winter weather. Over 4,000 Cherokees died due to this action of the government (represented by the messenger of death, the owl). So sad and tragic was the journey that it is called , The Trail of Tears.
