

Plans for the Pony Express were spurred by the threat of the Civil War and the need for faster communication with the West. The Pony Express consisted of relays of men riding horses carrying saddlebags of mail across a 2000-mile trail.

EXPRESS MAIL

$500.00

16" x 40" Acrylic painting on gallery wrap canvas using airbrush and flat style techniques.