AS THE WORLD TURNS

Six months after the lost of wife to a heart attack, the world continues to turn, my life and art are finally getting re-organized. I have some exciting new projects I am working on that I will preview in next months newsletter.

The art shows have started badly this year with poor sales at the Colorado Indian Market and the Tulsa Indian Art Show was postponed until May. I am getting ready to go to Cahokia Mounds Spring Arts and Crafts show. Up-coming show list is show at the bottom of the page and for a complete list see my web site.

In December I bought a 28' travel trailer I have been converting to my new studio and home. This has been a real challenge: putting a 1500 square foot studio into 260 square foot trailer, and still have living space. As you can see below I have met the challenge and project is almost complete. I have already moved into it, and plan on finishing it up before moving to the Cherokee Nation in the Eastern part of Oklahoma.
